HISTORY

Marymount University is an independent institution related to the Roman Catholic Church. Founded by the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary as a women's college in 1950, the name "Marymount" is shared by elementary, secondary and collegiate institutions. in California, New York, Colombia, England, France, Italy and Mexico. Each school is sponsored by the order but remains autonomous and subject to its own governing board. In 1960, the institution was incorporated as Marymount College of Virginia. From 1950 to 1972, only the associate's degree was offered. The first male students were admitted in 1972 in its nursing program. In 1975, it became a senior college offering the bachelor's degree in more than 20 fields. In 1979, graduate programs leading to the master's degree were added. That same year with the addition of coed graduate programs, male students began matriculating in increasing numbers. In 1986, the institution responded to its changing student profile by becoming coeducational at all levels and changing its name to Marymount University.
